

Cargill in Australia

Grains & Oilseeds Origination
Field & Digital Services

Sustainability
Cargill SustainConnect™
& Environmental Markets

Beef

Crush & Refining
Canola & Cotton

Animal Feed Additives

Grain Storage, Handling & Supply Chain

Export & Domestic Merchandising & Risk Products

Transmission Fluid

Food Enterprise

- Grain storage & handling facility
- Ship loading facility
- Crush facility
- Refinery (Cargill's Global Edible Oils)
- Food & beverage
- Regional based origination staff
- Trading, merchandising, customer support
- JV Altona Ag - Temora
- TEYS
- ANH Feed Additives
- FR3 Specialised Portfolio

Cargill in NZ

Meal Import & Storage

- Meal import & storage

Export Terminal Partners

Queensland
Mackay
Gladstone
Fisherman Island

New South Wales
Carrington
Port Kembla

Victoria
Geelong
Portland

South Australia
Port Adelaide OH/IH
Walleroo
Port Giles
Port Lincoln
Thevenard

Western Australia
Esperance
Albany
Kwinana
Geraldton

Cargill – Innovating for the future of Australian food and agriculture

Cargill has had a proud presence in Australia since 1967 and has continued to invest and grow over time.

Starting with our first canola crush facility in 1982 we have expanded to become Australia's leading crusher. In 2011, Cargill acquired the AWB and GrainFlow businesses, significantly strengthening our grain marketing and storage and handling capabilities.

Today, we are a truly national business, spanning the food and agricultural value chain. In 2025, Cargill completed the full acquisition of Teys, one of Australia's leading processors and exporters of beef.

Cargill's strength is our people. With approximately 5,000 employees across Australia, we combine deep local knowledge with world-class expertise across agriculture, food, supply chain, risk management and sustainability.

Many of our team live and work in regional communities, partnering with growers, customers and industry every day. We take a long-term approach to relationships, bringing together practical experience, technical expertise and a commitment to delivering outcomes for our customers.

Operating as One Cargill, we connect local capability with the scale, innovation and resources of a global business to help customers navigate challenges, capture opportunities and grow sustainably.